WELLNESS PRODUCTS FROM NATURE

WHAT IS CBD?

Hemp is one of the oldest useful plants of humankind and offers many different possible uses. The Cannabinoid CBD has, beside many valuable proteins, terpenes and further active substances, the second most frequently used ingredient of the hemp plant.

CB1 CB2

CBD affects the endogenous human cannabinoid system. This is part of the nervous system and has receptors on the cell surface to which CBD can dock. These receptors regulate numerous biological processes in the body.

VITALIX HEMP EXTRACTS

WELLNESS PRODUCTS WITH CBD

Vitalix full spectrum hemp extracts contain the full CBD plant power. They are rich in terpenes and phytocannabinoids, which provide a strong entourage effect. This means that the interaction of the contained plant substances has a higher biological activity than the pure substance itself.

HEMP EXTRACTS

- ✓ Natural spectrum of cannabinoids
- ✓ THC < 0.2 % or 0.0 %

Edelweiss – the 'eternal flower' – effectively protects against UV rays. It protects cells and binds free radicals. Apricot kernel oil and jojoba oil activate the skin metabolism and deliver moisture. Hemp oil has a soothing effect on the skin and is ideal for sensitive skin.

Edelweiss has a high tannin content, which has a protective effect on the skin. The plant is said to have antiseptic and vasoconstrictive properties. It also contains flavonoids that can reduce the development of spider veins and couperose.

EXTRA STRONG CARE

Special care with extra strong 500 mg CBD for sensitive, highly stressed skin

Liquorice root has a soothing effect on inflammation, redness and itching. Hyaluronic acid ensures firm connective tissue. Ectoin – a natural molecule – protects the skin from stress. Shea butter and jojoba oil nourish and moisturize the skin, while soothing and calming sensitive skin, irritated and highly stressed skin areas.

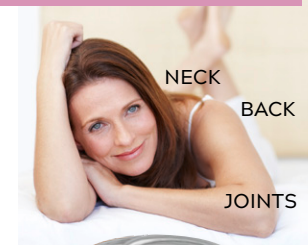

The root of the liquorice root bush contains the key ingredient glycyrrhizin, a sweet substance that is converted into glycyrrhetic acid in the body. It has anti-inflammatory and antibacterial effects. It can significantly improve itching, swelling and redness.

CBD INTENSIVE BALM

FOR LIGHT LEGS

Intensive care balm with CBD:

Strengthens veins and connective tissue, cools and cares for burning, dry feet

Horse chestnut is known for its vein-strengthening and edema-reducing effect and helps against water retention. Arnica and verbena have anti-inflammatory and healing effects. Cares, protects, cools, refreshes and revitalises stressed feet and legs.

Horse chestnut seals the vessel walls and increases the elasticity of the veins that are needed for the blood to flow back to the heart. It has an anti-inflammatory effect and is used for painful and tired legs, itching and calf cramps.

Anti-Aging Face Cream with CBD
revitalises, moisturises, smoothes wrinkles and protects sensitive skin

Oat kernel oil has a soothing effect and protects the skin from inflammation. Hyaluronic acid firms the skin and counteracts the loss of elasticity. Vitamin E regenerates the skin and shea butter and jojoba oil deliver intensive moisture.

HYALURON
Hyalurone is a substance that occurs naturally in the body and is found in the cells and intercellular spaces. The sugar-like compound plays a very important role in the body because it can bind water. It plumps up the skin and leaves it looking more radiant, fresher and younger.

GUA SHA

In traditional Chinese medicine, the Gua Sha stone is mainly used for scraping body massages. When used for a gentle facial massage, they are a highly effective way to firm and refresh the skin.

How to use: Hold the Gua Sha stone at an angle and stroke from the centre of the face outward. The stone always moves from the centre of the face outward and from bottom to top at the same time. The jawline can be stroked with the short side of the stone, while the wide side can be moved along the neck, for example. It can also be used to massage oils or creams into the skin.

Tip for headaches: A temple massage combined with an essential oil (e.g. Headcalm, s. P. 26).

ESSENTIAL OILS

BASIC REMEDIES

Massages

Mix 50 ml of almond or jojoba oil with 15-20 drops of essential oil.

Inhalations

Place 3-10 drops of essential oil in a bowl of boiling water and inhale for up to 10 minutes.

Massages with essential oils have a relaxing and balancing effect.

For mild headaches, a gentle massage of the temples and neck with essential oils stimulates and invigorates the circulation.

Baths with essential oils have a soothing effect after a long day or with looming colds.

Essential oils are natural, highly concentrated substances, which are obtained from different parts of plants and consist of up to 160 individual ingredients. They protect the plants from diseases and attract insects. Most essential oils are obtained by steam distillation, some by cold pressing or extraction.

Essential oils have a positive effect on body and mind, because the sense of smell is directly connected to the limbic system of the brain, the switch point of our emotions. Essential oils can influence our mood, stimulate our senses and stimulate our self-healing powers. They are used in diffuser lamps, in the bath, with compresses and wraps, for inhalation and as massage oils.

EFFECT OF ESSENTIAL OILS

+ Antibacterial

Thyme, lavender, rosemary

+ Antiviral

Tea tree oil, bergamot, eucalyptus

+ Relaxing

Lavender, jasmine, chamomile

+ Stimulating

Orange, lemon, peppermint

Inhalations with essential oils are pleasant for respiratory diseases and coughs.

Essential oils can be absorbed particularly well through the skin of the soles of the feet or palms of the hands.

BE HAPPY

Essential oil mixture Be happy:
A stimulating and invigorating combination of essential oils with rosemary, orange and lemon balm.

Lemon balm can have a positive effect on the immune system and on stress levels, orange enhances positive feelings. Rosemary oil is

POSITIVE ENERGY

Among other things, our air is filled with charged atoms or molecules, so-called ions. If they have more protons than electrons, they are positively charged; if they have excess electrons, they have a negative charge.

Higher concentrations of negative ions of up to 50,000 per cm³ are mainly found in nature. For example, near rivers and waterfalls, but also forests and mountains, and interestingly, where lightening has just struck.

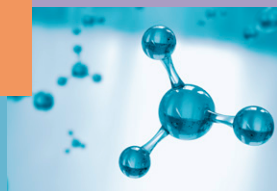

In closed rooms, especially in the vicinity of computers and other modern devices, there is usually an excess of positive ions.

Fresh air gives us energy and vitality.

A favourable ratio is 60 % negative ions to 40 % positive ions.

When showering, the water drops should be enriched with negative oxygen molecules.

CONCENTRATION OF NEGATIVE IONS (Ø)

| Environment | Negativ-Ions/cm ³ |
|-----------------------|------------------------------|
| Air-conditioned room | 0–100 |
| Busy roads | 100–300 |
| Well ventilated house | 500 |
| River banks | 600 |
| Woodland | 3,000 |

JEWELLERY SHOWN IN LIFE-SIZE

WELL PROTECTED

Smartphones, tablets and Wi-Fi routers are just a few sources of electromagnetic radiation. It is presumed to have an affect on the brain's natural activity and metabolism by altering the composition of certain frequency bands. In sensitive people, this can affect the ability to concentrate and lead to restlessness and sleep disorders.

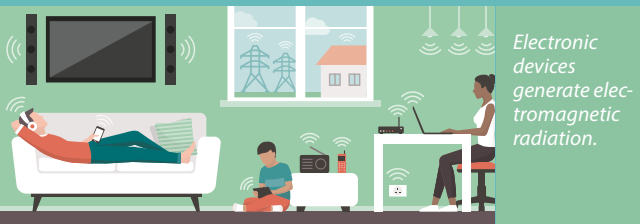

Everyday at the office, many people are exposed to various rays and fields for many hours a day.

Even small children are exposed to electrosmog when they handle tablets and other devices.

Smartphones are an integral part of modern life.

Electronic devices generate electromagnetic radiation.

Diagram of electromagnetic interference potential without (left) and with (right) Gabriel chip.

The Gabriel chip is an aluminium chip with a modified atomic structure. This modification allows it to influence electric, magnetic and electromagnetic waves and fields. It 'rearranges' their interactions without changing the original signals.

Just stick a chip onto the back of your smartphone or tablet. For monitors, Wi-Fi routers, etc., close to the power supply if possible. (Laptops require two chips, one centred on the back and the other on the right or left under the keyboard)
